Sorry Twane. With regards to my earlier email. I think it will be easier to enter the sire as multi sire for all those errors. The calves will be B's regardless of who the sire is so I think lets go ahead and do it that way.

Thank you

Hi Twane

I hope you are well. With regards to my errors on Logix, I have a lot of error for sire no in possession. Although I did buy semen straws of those sires from another breeder. How do I go about getting possession of those bulls, will a letter from the owner be good enough?

Then I also have to calves that I entered in the wrong mother for. D20015 born on the 05/09/20 has a dam numbered D16001.

D20033 born 23/8/20 has a dam numbered D16003.

Is it better for me to re enter these births or can you rectify them on your side?

Many thanks
