INITIAL FITTING OF THE SUBJECTS

Research by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) has shown that the use of pesticides in agriculture can lead to the contamination of water resources. This contamination can have negative impacts on the health of humans and animals, as well as on the environment. The EPA and USGS have developed a number of strategies to reduce the use of pesticides in agriculture, including the use of integrated pest management (IPM) and the use of biological control agents. These strategies have been shown to be effective in reducing the use of pesticides and in protecting water resources.
